Federal tax credits, incentives, rebates are available for efficiency upgrades

Q: How do I use federal tax credits and rebates to upgrade my home?

A: Tax credits and rebates can help bridge the affordability gap to higher efficiency equipment for your home, allowing you to complete energy efficiency upgrades that can lower your energy use and save you money in years to come.

First, knowing the difference between a tax credit and rebate is important. A rebate is a payment for purchasing or installing a qualified product or home improvement. To be eligible for a rebate from West Central Electric, members must have equipment installed and running before applying for the rebate. A list of available rebates, qualifications and amounts is listed on our website at www.westcentralelectric.coop.

A tax credit is a dollar-for-dollar amount that taxpayers can report on their tax documents to reduce the amount of taxes owed. You apply for a tax credit when you file your tax documents, so it typically takes longer to reap the benefits than it does with a rebate.

According to ENERGY STAR®, homeowners can qualify for up to $3,200 annually in federal tax credits for energy efficiency upgrades. Federal tax credits are available for heating and cooling system upgrades, including heat pumps, furnaces, central air conditioners, boilers and geothermal heat pumps. Tax credits for ENERGY STAR®-rated heat pump water heaters cover 30% of the project cost, up to $2,000. You can also improve your home's envelope—the portion of the home that separates the inside from the outside—with tax credits for insulation, windows and skylights.

If an energy efficiency upgrade requires improving the electrical panel in your home, there's a tax credit for that, too. You can receive 30% of the cost of the panel upgrade, up to $600.

These federal tax credits are available through 2032. You must own the home you're upgrading, and it must be your primary residence. Federal tax credits only apply to existing homes in the United States, not new construction.

The Inflation Reduction Act of 2022 expanded available funding for many home upgrades. The act allocated $8.8 million for home rebate programs to be implemented at the state level, and this funding is offered in two different programs. The HOMES program allows up to $8,000 per home for standard-income households. Higher rebates are available for low- to moderate-income households. The HEAR program offers rebates of up to $14,000 per home for qualified, efficient electric equipment for low- to moderate-income households.

These programs are designed to bolster existing programs and should be available in late 2024 or early 2025. Check with your electric cooperative or state office to find out if they are being offered in your state.

Additional energy efficiency rebates might also be available. More than half of U.S. states require energy efficiency programs for residents, according to the American Council for an Energy-Efficient Economy. These programs can help people save money on their electric bills and help states meet climate goals, reduce system costs and improve the electric grid.

Miranda Boutelle is the chief operating officer at Efficiency Services Group in Oregon, a cooperatively-owned energy efficiency company. She has more than 20 years of experience helping people save energy at home, and she writes on energy efficiency topics for the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association, the national trade association representing nearly 900 electric co-ops.

ON THE COVER: Delegates at the 2024 Cooperative Youth Conference and Leadership Experience (CYCLE) participate in a team activity, "Build a Cooperative."

CYCLE challenges students to become involved leaders

For four days in July, Jefferson City was home to some of the best and brightest students Missouri has to offer. The event was the Cooperative Youth Conference and Leadership Experience sponsored by the Association of Missouri Electric Cooperatives, and attended by high school juniors and seniors from across the state chosen to represent their local cooperatives.

West Central Electric Cooperative's representatives were Warrensburg High School seniors Elora Coleman and Adam Wisocky, and Crest Ridge High School senior Kayley Marten, who all won the trip through their participation in the 2024 Youth Tour and CYCLE competition held this spring.

The goal of CYCLE is to be a leadership development stepping stone for youth. By cooperatives getting involved in helping develop their leadership potential, the hope is for delegates to go back to their communities, continue to learn from local leaders, educators and co-op staff so when they get into positions of leadership later in life, they remember the cooperatives' way of thinking.

“My time with CYCLE was amazing. It really opened my eyes to how electric co-ops support us in our everyday lives. The people I met, the great speakers we heard, and the experiences I had will stick with me for a long time.” -- Adam Wisocky

Delegates participate in leadership activities, cooperative education and hands-on government. From the introductory “Can You Find Me?” game, students are energized and off and running from daybreak until lights out, forging friendships and discovering more about themselves. While the conference is short, CYCLE is jam-packed with activity from the team-building exercise “Build a Cooperative” game, and a visit to the Missouri State Penitentiary, to a day trip to St. Louis and time at the state Capitol Building debating a bill they authored.

Motivational sessions with guest speakers include Dan Meers, (KC Wolf) and the Rachel's Challenge group, which shows students how they can start a chain reaction of compassion in their own communities.

For more information about the Youth Tour and CYCLE contest, contact Heather Hoflander at 800-491-3803 or heather@wcecoop.com.

EPA's power plant rule threatens electric reliability

As your local electric cooperative, keeping the lights on at a cost you can afford is our top priority. This spring, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) issued a rule that impacts energy production from power plants. The power plant rule will undoubtedly threaten access to reliable electricity for our local community and communities across the country.

The rule constrains existing coal and new natural gas plants by requiring them to install carbon capture and storage (CCS) — a technology that has potential but has not been proven to be viable as required. No power plant in North America currently uses CCS at the scale and levels mandated by EPA. When power plants aren't able to comply with EPA's CCS requirements, they will be required to shut down, significantly limit operations, or switch fuels. These unrealistic standards will force the unnecessary and early shutdown of many power plants that currently provide reliable electricity 24/7.

Renewable sources, such as solar and wind, are important components of our overall generation mix. But given the intermittent nature of these energy sources, we simply cannot depend on them because the wind doesn't always blow and the sun doesn't always shine. The need for always-available power generating resources is still essential.

The timing of the power plant rule is equally troubling. At the same time the EPA is leading our nation down the path to fewer power plants, utilities are facing a surge in electricity demand — driven by the onshoring of manufacturing, the growth of the American economy and the rapid expansion of data centers to support artificial intelligence, e-commerce and cryptocurrency.

Co-ops are no strangers to innovation, and we are taking proactive steps to address today's energy challenges and tomorrow's energy needs. We've led the charge on industry endeavors such as community solar projects, and we'll continue to explore new technologies and strategies that bolster reliability and our local grid.

You can help. Send a letter to your member of Congress telling them to support reliable power by halting the EPA's unrealistic, unnecessary and expensive rules. Visit www.4EnergyReliability.com or scan the QR code to learn more and send a message on behalf of your rural community.

IMPACTS OF THE EPA'S POWER PLANT RULE

The Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) power plant rule threatens access to reliable electricity for millions of Americans. The EPA's power plant rule will:

- 1 Force the premature closure of many power plants that currently provide electricity 24/7.
- 2 Mandate the deployment of unproven carbon capture and storage technology.
- 3 Jeopardize the reliability of the grid at a time when America is already facing a surge in electricity demand.
- 4 Heighten the risk of rolling power outages to relieve pressure on the electric grid.
- 5 Increase costs for consumers as utilities are forced to pay for new power generation to comply with the EPA rule.
