The other side of the meter

In the cooperative world, our job is to provide our members with safe, reliable, affordable electricity. On the other side of the meter, however, our mission is to enhance the quality of life for our members, their families and the local communities.

West Central Electric does this in a variety of ways. Providing safe, reliable, affordable electricity is one way, but there are a host of others such as rebate programs; scholarship programs; sponsoring 4-H, FFA and other community events and the new Operation Round-up Program.

The 7th Cooperative Principle is "Concern for Community."

While focusing on member needs, cooperatives work for the sustainable development of communities through policies and programs accepted by the members.

We don't look at that commitment as an option, but rather an expectation that our role as a member-owned cooperative is to look out for the well-being of our members in more ways than just making sure they have electricity on which they can rely and that they can afford.

So, when you think of your local electric cooperative, think of our mission -- which goes well beyond the meter.

West Central Electric Cooperative • 2018 Board of Directors Candidates

District 1

Jeremy Ahmann
Odessa, Mo.

Occupation: Farmer; Lewis Hybrids Seed Dealer

Family: Wife, Rachel; Children, Abe (7), Emily (6) and Lauren (4)

Community groups and organizations, church, etc. to which you belong: Grace Lutheran Church, Lexington, MO

Why did you agree to run for re-election to the board of directors? What do you feel qualifies you to serve as a director of the cooperative? I am thankful for the opportunity to have served on the Board for the last three and a half years. I have enjoyed my time and have learned a great deal from the other directors and the staff at the cooperative. There is a great deal to learn both within our service area and across the industry and I look forward to supporting the Cooperative in making the best choices for our members. There's not one specific quality of mine that I feel qualifies me to serve as a director more than any other, but I believe in hard work, good communication and making decisions for the greater good. I feel a strong sense of commitment to the future this cooperative and making sure that the voices and best interests of the members are heard, and I hope I can bring additional skills to the Board in my next term.

What are your goals for your next three-year term? I hope to be able to continue to expand my knowledge of the cooperative and bring strategic ways to provide affordable, reliable electric service to our members. I have learned a great deal in the last three years thanks to the dedicated staff and the willingness of other board members to share their experiences. I would like to continue to expand my knowledge as a Director by attending conferences to learn more about the issues that face the industry and cooperatives like West Central.

In your opinion, what is the biggest issue facing electric cooperatives today, and how do you plan to address that issue? There are always concerns that face a cooperative. Some of those concerns are industry-wide while others are cooperative specific. I hope to be able to serve the members and make decisions that are best suited for the present and the future of the cooperative. I want to ensure that the next generation can benefit from the services of cooperatives like West Central Electric.

Additional comments: Serving the members of West Central Electric has been a privilege. I am thankful for the opportunity to continue to serve its members and help ensure the future viability of the Cooperative.

District 2

Clark Bredehoeft
Blackburn, Mo.

Occupation: Farmer

Family: My wife, Holly, and I have three grown children: Tyler, Jordan and his wife Breanna, and Sydney

Community groups and organizations, church, etc. to which you belong: Trinity Lutheran Church – presently Chairman of the Congregation, Farm Bureau, MU Alumni Association, American Soybean Association, Corn Growers Association, Board of Directors for AMEC – Association of Missouri Electric Cooperatives

Why did you agree to run for re-election to the board of directors? What do you feel qualifies you to serve as a director of the cooperative? Being on the board of directors is something I have enjoyed and I am willing to devote the time needed to help maintain and promote the business of West Central Electric. Because electricity is a valuable input in my agricultural business, it has always been my desire to help WCE keep costs down and provide the best service possible. My years of service and education while on the board of directors has qualified me to make decisions in the greatest interest of all members. I feel it is important to elect directors who look out for all members. This is what I have always done and will do in the future, if re-elected.

What are your goals for your next three-year term? My goals for the next three years are to provide leadership to maintain the quality of service with the lowest cost possible for our members.

In your opinion, what is the biggest issue facing electric cooperatives today, and how do you plan to address that issue? The changing political environment and government regulations are issues we always face. We as members can help by keeping our legislators informed as much as possible on the important issues that concern our electric cooperatives. Also, it is important to elect officials that support the coop and its members.

Additional comments: It has been a privilege to serve on the cooperative's board of directors and I thank you for your support in the past.

District 4

Dale Jarman
Holden, Mo.

Occupation: Farmer

Family: My wife, Georgia, and I have two sons, Seth and Nathan.

Community groups and organizations, church, etc. to which you belong: I am a member of the Holden United Methodist Church. In addition, I am a trustee of the Blackwater Cemetery Association and a member of the Johnson County Extension Council. I serve on the West Central Electric Scholarship Committee and the John and Kathryn English Scholarship Committee.

Why did you agree to run for re-election to the board of directors? What do you feel qualifies you to serve as a director of the cooperative? My family have been West Central co-op members since service became available to us at our farm near 50 and 131 highways. I am aware of the original mission this co-op held to serve the rural population that the private utility companies found too unprofitable to serve. Co-ops are responsible to the members they serve; and not to profit outside investors. My commitment as a director is to stay true to this mission of service in order to meet the needs of all of our members.

What are your goals for your next three-year term? Our most important goal is to work to provide quality, reliable service at affordable rates.

In your opinion, what is the biggest issue facing electric cooperatives today, and how do you plan to address that issue? Quality service and low rates are at the core of what we do. I feel optimistic about our co-op's future. The co-op model provides an excellent way to provide electricity. Cost of production appears to be fairly stable and more diversified with wind and gas being very competitive. Locally, we need to continue upgrading our power lines and cutting brush.

Additional comments: I have learned a great deal about our co-op over the past few years. I believe I am in a position to help maintain a strong co-op that continues to meet our members' needs. I would appreciate your support in this election.

Operation Round Up!

FAQs

Q. What is Operation Round Up?

A. Operation Round Up is a program to generate and collect donations that are used to benefit charitable organizations and the communities within the WCE service territory.

Q. How did Round Up begin?

A. The program was created by Palmetto Electric Cooperative in South Carolina in 1989. Since that time, the program has been adopted by more than 200 electric cooperatives nationwide and 18 cooperatives in Missouri.

Q. How does Round Up work?

A. Beginning September 1, 2018, the electric bills of WCE members will be rounded up to the next dollar. For example, if your bill is $65.50, it would be rounded up to $66.00. A bill of $59.99 would be rounded up to $60.00. The funds collected are placed into the WCE Round Up Foundation and 100% of the funds are donated to charitable organizations through an application process. WCE Round Up Foundation does not keep any of the money collected. On average, a member will donate $6.00 a year.

Q. Is my donation tax deductible?

A. Yes, all donations are tax deductible.

Q. What if I don't want to participate?

A. WCE members are automatically enrolled in Operation Roundup. However, you can opt out of participation. No members will be forced to contribute. If you wish to opt out of the program, you can do so by contacting us at 1-800-491-3803 and tell us you'd rather not be enrolled. Or, you can complete the form included in your May bill and return it to us with your monthly payment.

Q. How much money could Operation Round Up collect?

A. WCE has over 12,000 members. If 50% of our membership participates in the program, Operation Roundup could potentially raise approximately $36,000 per year. With 100% of those funds going to charitable organizations within our communities, the possibilities are endless.

OPERATION ROUND UP...West Central Electric Cooperative's Operation Round Up Foundation is set up and ready for board members to begin taking applications this fall. Thaller, a 2009 graduate of Lafayette County C-I High School has now joined the cooperative ranks in WCE's Information Technology department where he works with keeping the company's computer system up and running as well as the outage program and other technology issues.

"It is great to be a part of an organization that gives something back to the community," Thaller said. "I look forward to building new relationships with the great crew here at West Central and becoming part of the team."
